Centre for Maritime Law and Research

About the Centre: The Centre for Maritime Law and Research is established by the MNLU Mumbai and the Directorate General of Shipping, Government of India. It was inaugurated on 29th July 2018 by Hon'ble Justice K.R. Shriram, Judge, Bombay High Court, who is the Chairman of the Advisory Board. The Centre is a think-tank for the country on the many facets of maritime law. It conducts training programs, conferences, workshops and seminars in the field of maritime law. It aims to address the concerns of the shipping industry, seafarers, maritime authority and the coastal security.

About the event: The dialogue will see a deliberation, on the situation of maritime safety and security and environment in the Indian Ocean, adequacy of the present law of the seas to address these issues and use of the technology to address some of these concerns. The aim of the dialogue is to create the awareness and capacity building regarding national and international maritime law relevant to work of concerned authorities.

About the Partners:

The Directorate General of Shipping, India deals with implementation of shipping policy and legislation so as to ensure the safety of life and ships at sea, prevention of marine pollution, promotion of maritime education and training in co-ordination with the International Maritime Organization.

The National Maritime Foundation (NMF), New Delhi is an autonomous think tank was established in 2005 as the nation's first maritime think-tank for conducting independent and policy-relevant research on 'matters maritime'. Its intellectual and organisational development is supported by the Ministry of Defense and the Indian Navy.

The Stockton Center for the Study of International Law is a research center that brings together the academic, governmental and non-governmental communities to focus on cutting edge legal research at the intersection of military strategy, policy, operations and international law.
