ABOUT THE COURSE

The Online Certificate Course in Trademark Registration, Prosecution, Enforcement and Geographical Indications is designed to provide participants with a comprehensive understanding of the legal framework and practical dimensions of Trademark and Geographical Indication (GI) protection.

The Course adopts a practice-oriented approach, covering the trademark lifecycle, including registrability and classification of marks, filing and registration, examination of applications, drafting replies to examination reports, opposition and rectification proceedings, infringement and passing off, assignment and licensing, and renewal and restoration. The course examines international trademark protection under the Madrid System. It also covers key international conventions governing trademarks and offers a separate session dedicated to landmark judicial decisions in trademark law.

The course further introduces the legal framework governing GI registration and protection, highlighting the role of GIs in safeguarding the identity and reputation of products associated with specific geographical origins.

Through sessions led by distinguished academicians and experienced legal practitioners, the course seeks to bridge theoretical understanding with practical application and familiarise participants with the legal and procedural aspects of trademark and GI protection.
